

“Expanding upon the project’s success in 2012, FACT plans to provide funding to more than twice as many livestock farmers in the coming round of grants. This would enable family farmers across the country to improve the lives of hundreds – if not thousands – of animals.”

“In order for a humane food system to thrive, smaller-scale, sustainable operations must have access to funding opportunities to keep them competitive with large-scale operations. Our Fund-a-Farmer Project is just one piece, one step in the right direction,” FACT’s Executive Director Richard Wood explains.
